The Aston Building is full of history, located in the heart of historic downtown Farmersville. Featured on the National Register of Historic Places, The Aston was originally built in 1888. Current owners invested well in the renovation in 2006. With appreciation of the historic integrity, The Aston showcases incredible wood details throughout, amazing arched windows and a one of a kind illuminated glass domed ceiling that will leave you breathless. The moment you step inside the grand building, you know this building is rare and beautiful. The stairs were constructed from the repurposed original wood rafters. The lower floor features an artistic brick fireplace feature, full kitchen and floating counter. The balcony off the second floor offers special views of this busy historic district. Evenings are spectacular! The property is full of potential, from office, retail, restaurant, events or multiple leasing opportunities. The Aston
